Mr. Pemberton,

In response to your request for additional details in regards to the affected area impacts and remediation of the SSO reported on 4/10/18:

The overflow was caused by a tree falling on a unearthed section of force main and allowing one joint to partially push apart enough to allow only a limit amount of liquid (no solids) to spray from the joint. The full duration/volume of this leak is unknown but after observing the affected area, no evidence of adverse health or environmental impacts were found. Upon completion of the repair, there was no debris to remove since only liquid leaked from the pipe, lime was spread over the immediate area of the repair and due to the remote nature of the location and limited leakage no further remediation was deemed necessary.

As for completing the SSO report online:

I was unable to update the SSO report through the SSO reporting page. I was able to reach the data in the database but could not find a way to access or edit it. I believe in our phone conversation you mentioned you are able to make these corrections. If you could make the correction in would be greatly appreciated, if not what steps do I need to take to resolve the issue.

Thanks for your help,

Mr. Gregory,
Your SSO 5-day report has been received. Per our conversation this morning, the report does not mention environmental impact on, or remediation of, affected areas. Please provide any additional details to me in an email and complete the SSO report through our online SSO reporting page.

Your cooperation is appreciated.

Thank you,
