Mr. Ryan,

In answer to ADEQ's 1/12/12 e-correspondence, Southern Aluminum's corrective action plan (CAP) was received (via Finch Environmental) and determined to be an acceptable approach in determining the source of your Zinc excursions even though the wastewater collected/analyzed will not be representative of what is actually batch discharged every 3 or 4 months to the City's collection system. The sampling regime described in that CAP may very well identify your major source of Zinc. It is hoped once that source is identified, it can be reduced or entirely eliminated bringing your facility back into compliance with the Metal Finishing standards in 40 CFR 433.17.

The other two (2) regulatory deficiencies were also adequately addressed.

Please keep this office apprised of the efforts/conclusions of your CAP.

Please keep in mind the Federal Pretreatment Regulations under 40 CFR 403 and the Metal Finishing Standards under 40 CFR 433.17 are implemented and enforced nationwide. ADEQ is required to implement and enforce these Metal Finishing standards equally across the State as they are nationwide.

Sincerely,

Allen Gilliam
