America's First National River

Established in 1972, Buffalo National River flows freely for 135 miles and is one of the few remaining undammed rivers in the lower 48 states, and it is in our State of Arkansas. Because of this, the State of Arkansas is responsible for keeping this landmark clean, safe and protected forever.

The Buffalo River is a "National" River, which means it belongs to everyone, just like all of other "National" parks and monuments of our Great Nation.

It is a disgrace to continue to allow the contamination to this beautiful landmark by allowing the waste from the C&H Farm to penetrate the earth where it is leaking into the streams and tributaries to the Buffalo National River...

The State of Arkansas needs to act now!
